The Content Factory operates as a coordinated multi-agent system. 10 AI agents work autonomously on the Mac Mini, each specializing in a specific platform or function. Coach Wiseman scores every video. Director manages creative projects. RUMHAM, TIKHAM, YURI, and Publisher handle platform-specific posting. SENTINEL monitors everything and now sends Telegram alerts. Scout discovers new content. JARVIS provides always-on command processing.

Group Meeting System — 4 Components

- Mac Mini Orchestrator (group_meeting.py, 647 lines) — Polls all 10 agents via SSH, checks LaunchAgent plists, scans logs for errors, assigns green/yellow/red health status, manages agenda inbox and meeting history
- WordPress Plugin (group-meeting-tracker.php, 816 lines) — 12 WP-CLI commands + 7 REST API endpoints for meeting history, action items, decisions, follow-up tracking, and stop-doing list
- PDF Meeting Minutes Generator (generate_meeting_pdf.py, 582 lines) — 10-page luxury-styled PDF with AI illustrations, agent health grid, revenue charts, action item tables
- Skill File + Magic Word — Say 'Group Meeting' to trigger the full 14-step protocol from any Claude window

The 14-Step Meeting Protocol

- Wins Since Last Meeting (W Vault pull)
- Agent Health Dashboard (SENTINEL + Mac Mini roll-call)

How These Fixes Change the Game

Pipeline Starvation — Solved

The #1 problem was that quality thresholds were set too high for the current content mix. With 17,242 approved videos in queue but a 70/100 minimum score, most content was rejected. By lowering to 50/100, we dramatically increase throughput while still filtering out genuinely bad content. This means RUMHAM, Publisher, TIKHAM, and YURI can all find videos to post now.

Silent Failures — Eliminated

TIKHAM's import error went unnoticed for days because SENTINEL couldn't send alerts. Now with Telegram integration, Dennis gets a direct message the moment any agent goes red. Problems get caught in hours, not days.

Accountability Loop — Established

The Group Meeting system creates a recurring accountability cycle: action items are logged, decisions are tracked, and follow-ups compare what was promised vs. what was delivered. No more goals that drift — every meeting checks the receipts from the last one.
